DEGREES

Conferred upon Thirty-Six Dr. Walsh Speaker

"Ideals in Education" was the topic of Dr. James J. Walsh of New York City at the Eighty-First annual Commencement of St. Xavier College at the Emery Auditorium, June 17.

"We are educating people to be interested in their bodies rather than their minds, hearts and souls. . . . We need much more than education of the senses and of the memory if there is to be any real education of our men and women. . . . There is no necessary connection between mental development and moral character; it is perfectly possible for a man to be well educated, yet a scoundrel. . . . Education, then, must be so arranged as to call our attention to the higher things, not only what interests our minds, but also our hearts and souls."

Displaying the qualities that have made him one of the very foremost lecturers of the country, Dr. Walsh held the close, alert, sympathetic attention of his whole audience throughout. His address came at the end of an unusually interesting program opened by selections by members of the Trinity Orchestra under direction of George R. Myers. During the Academic Procession, led by Albert W. Leibold, A. B., the orchestra rendered the processionals, "Le Pere de la Victoire."—(Globe).

SOCIAL WORKERS'

Club Formed by Xaverians

An organization intended for all Catholic social workers of Greater Cincinnati has been formed by Xaverians, members of the Lay Apostolate Class.

On Wednesday evening, June 8, a meeting was held at the home of the class president, Miss Conroy. Mr. Higgins, treasurer of the C. & S. College Students Mission Crusade Unit read his report, and it was voted to distribute $150.00 as follows:

Jesuit Missions in India.....	$50
Fr. Barry's Mission, Kentucky.....	$25
Chinese Mission Society,
Omaha, Nebraska.....	$25
Negro Missions.....	$25
Kenton Street Welfare Center.....	$25

It was resolved to perpetuate the good fellowship of the class and to

FOOTBALL SCHEDULE 1921

October 1.—Morris Harvey at Corcoran Field.

October 8.—Dayton University at Dayton.

October 15.—Centre College at Redland Field.

October 22.—Hanover College at Corcoran Field.

October 29.—Creighton University at Corcoran Field.

November 5.—St. Ignatius College at Corcoran Field.

November 12.—Rose Poly at Corcoran Field.

November 19.—Open.

Judging by the excellent progress in the concrete work on the stadium, Corcoran Field will have seats for 4500 at the opening of the coming football season.

The Valparaiso game, scheduled November 19, is cancelled as Valparaiso is now a government vocational school without inter-collegiate athletics.

utilize its "pep" by a permanent organization. Thus the Catholic Welfare Club came into existence.

Its aim is to carry into practice the principles laid down by Fr. Reiner, Fr. Grosse and Fr. Wagner and to keep its members in touch socially with one another. Its activities will embrace all forms of social work and an interest in social legislation. Meetings will be held monthly at the homes of different members.

Fills Long Felt Want

Catholic social workers, both professional and volunteer, have long felt the want of an organization by which they might become acquainted with one another and discuss social problems from a Catholic viewpoint. It is the ambition of the Catholic Welfare Club to fill this want.

Charter members of the club represent four cities. Cincinnati has Misses Conroy, Hulsman, Kriser, Kelly, Kennedy, McCanley, Melners and O'Brien; Covington, Misses Craven and Glunberlain; Ft. Thomas, Miss Sauer; Newport, Miss O'Neill and Mr. Higgins, who is a candidate for the Kentucky Legislature subject to the Democratic primaries. Mr. Higgins' success at the polls will assure Kentucky of good constructive social legislation.

The next meeting will be held July 23, at the home of Miss Sauer, 231 Ft. Thomas Avenue, Fort Thomas, Ky.

A dozen or more members of the Arts Class of '24 celebrated the close of school by a picnic at New Baltimore, Ohio, June 18.

TRANSFER

Of Seven Members of Faculty Announced

Rev. Fathers Reiner, Ryan, Spalding and Smith, and Messrs. Connell, Belleperche and Horn, S. J., will not be with St. Xavier this coming year, according to recent news from St. Louis.

Rev. Joseph S. Reiner, S. J., A. M., has been Regent of the School of Commerce and Sociology and Professor of Economics, and has taken leading parts in many activities. He goes to Marquette University.

Rev. Charles M. Ryan, S. J., A. M., has been Prefect of the High School and Professor of Latin. His new place will be St. Ignatius College, Cleveland.

Rev. Henry S. Spalding, S. J., A. M., Regent of the School of Law and Professor of Economics is transferred to St. Louis.

Rev. Francis Smith, S. J., of the High School, goes to Brooklyn, Ohio.

Messrs. Belleperche, Connell and Horn will continue their studies in the Order at St. Louis.

SUMMER SESSION

Classes Now in Full Swing

Records have been broken by the enrollment of a total of 333 students, including sisters from 15 communities, in the Summer School directed by Rev. George Kister, S. J.

The session opened June 27, and will close August 5. Classes are being held every week-day except Saturday at the High School building, Sycamore Street.

The work is divided into three courses, namely:

1. Courses of college grade in which credit is given toward a degree.
2. Courses offering credit toward college entrance.
3. Normal courses designed to meet requirements for a provisional State Teacher's Certificate. Credit gained in these normal courses may be applied toward a degree.

This is the eighth Summer Session at St. Xavier, the classes having been inaugurated in 1914. The popularity and success of the plan have led to the present enlarged program.

The oratory was preceded by the national anthem. The first speaker was George B. Maggini, A. B., who delivered the Bachelor's Oration on "Government." Representing the School of Commerce and Sociology, Edwin G. Becker, B. C. S., spoke on "Co-operation."

A vocal selection, "Gloria," was then given by Leo E. Speth, A. B., baritone, accompanied by Eugene F. Eckerle, A. B., pianist. The Valedictory was delivered by John G. Danahy, A. B.

Degrees, Diplomas and Certificates

Rev. James McCabe, president of St. Xavier, assisted by Rev. Joseph Heiser, regent of the School of Commerce, conferred degrees and diplomas upon the following:

Bachelor of Arts—Charles Berthold Auman, Henry B. Bunker, John G. Danahy, Eugene F. Eckerle, Edward A. Freckling, Philip J. Glinney, Lawrence H. Kyte, George B. Maggini, Joseph O'Meara, John H. Rolfe, Oscar J. Roth, Leo E. Speth, Sister Helena Du S. S. Connolly, Sister Marie Du St. E. Murphy, Sister Mary Antonia Cassidy, Sister Mary Evelyn Elliott, Sister Mary Francis O'Leary, Sister Teresa Clara Good, Sister Berenice Greenwell, Sister Mary Donatella Thuermer.

Bachelor of Philosophy—Sister Mary Carmel McElhann, Sister Mary Eve-tine Elliott.

Bachelor of Science—Sister Mary Edwin Fennessy.

Bachelor of Commercial Science—Florence C. Albers, Edwin G. Becker, Alfred E. Brann, Joseph M. Conway, Emile C. Fussinger, Robert G. Hartman, Catherine A. Lohr, Mary Agnes Moran, F. Joseph Oberschmidt, Frank G. Schaefer, George C. Selzer, Mary Florence Topmiller, James M. Twomey, Raymond W. Weber.

Regular Certificate of Commercial Science—Richard J. Flinn, Charles E. Hagedorn, Max E. Lechner.

Special Certificate of Commercial Science—Helen C. Flinn, Amelia Grander, William H. Moeller, George A. Molleran, Alfred J. Scheidler, Opheila E. Schmitt, Marie A. Zuriga.

Diploma of Social Economy—Evelyn M. O'Neill, Mary Laella Sauer.

Medals

Three medals were presented, the Xavier Medal for excellence in philosophy to George Maggini, the Alumni Oratorical Medal to John U. Danahy, winner of the Washington Birthday Oratorical Contest, the Joseph B. Verkamp Medal to George A. Siffin, '24, adjudged best speaker in the annual debate held in April.

Commencement Week

Commencement night was the culmination of an eventful week for the graduates.

On Sunday evening, June 12, Baccalaureate Services were held at St. Xavier Church, Sycamore Street. The graduates attended in a body, wearing their academic garb. The sermon was preached by Rev. Francis J. Walsh, pastor of St. Andrew's Church, Avondale.

IN MEMORIAM

A leader of religious activities of Cincinnati was lost by the death on June 22, of Rev. Francis M. Laumpling, an alumnus of St. Xavier.

He was born in Cincinnati, and graduated from St. Xavier in 1887. Having completed his theological studies at Mount St. Mary's Seminary, Cincinnati, he was ordained by Archbishop Elder, 1889.

For some years he was occupied with duties at St. Gregory's Preparatory Seminary. Then was transferred to Troy, Ohio. In 1907, he became pastor of St. Henry's Church, Cincinnati. In 1909, he was promoted to the pastorate of St. Francis de Sales, one of the largest parishes in the city, where he labored diligently and successfully up to the time of his last illness. May he rest in peace!

The news of the death of Rev. Augustine M. Ellinger, S. J., at Omaha, Nebraska, June 23, brought heartfelt sorrow to his many friends in Cincinnati. Father Ellinger was born in Cincinnati, 1885, attended St. Xavier, entered the Jesuit novitiate in 1874, taught in St. Xavier and other colleges, and until very recently, was professor of political economy and religion at Creighton University. May he rest in peace!

PRIZES

Awarded to Commerce Students

Florence C. Albers, president of the class of '21 of the School of Commerce and Sociology, has been awarded the J. D. Cloud gold medal for attaining the highest general average in scholarship in the senior class.

The C. V. Snelly and Joseph Berning gold medals were won by Edwin J. Ellig and Edward Herricks of the junior and freshman accounting classes respectively.

For proficiency in laying out newspaper advertisements, the gold medal was won by Gertrude Rummel, silver medal by Sherrard Nott, and bronze medal by Robert Nieman. These three medals are offered annually by Mr. Jesse Joseph of the Joseph Advertising Agency to the Ad-Sales students.

George C. Selzer, '21, won the Callaghan Premium for greatest proficiency in commercial law. Members of the senior class compete annually for this premium, a valuable law encyclopedia presented annually by Callaghan & Company of Chicago.

Tuesday evening, June 14, witnessed one of the most enthusiastic gatherings of Xavier's alumni ever held. Many who had never before attended a reunion were present at the Club House, Winding Way, to assist at the reception of the Class of '21 into the Alumni Association. Albert W. Leibold, '05, president of the association, welcomed the new members, while Lawrence Kyte and Emile Fussinger replied for the Liberal Arts and Commerce classes respectively.

HIGH SCHOOL

Diplomas for Fifty-eight

Closing with an inspiring address by an alumnus, of St. Xavier College, Reverend Matthew P. O'Brien, Ph. D., the program of the High School Commencement at the Emory Auditorium on June 15 proved a very interesting one.

After the overture by the High School Orchestra, addresses were delivered by graduates, "Abraham Lincoln," by Leo Nordloh, "The Value of Education," by Joseph W. Robinson, "Japan and America," by James Hart and "Theodore Roosevelt," by August Kramer. Between these were selections by the Junior Chorus and a declamation by J. Harry Moore.

The Graduates

Rev. James McCabe, President of St. Xavier, assisted by Rev. Charles M. Ryan, Prefect of the High School, awarded diplomas to the following:

Classical Course—Frank Albers, Lowell Baerlehter, Paul J. Berning, Joseph Dell, W. Edwin Ditzman, David Dunsbacher, Clement Fries, John Gaynor, Howard Geerlin, Wan, H. Hardebeck, James E. Hart, Joseph A. Higgins, Richard B. Homann, A. U. Horstmann, Philip Irwin, Edwin V. Keefe, William Kenkel, Phil. J. Kennedy, William Kuech, August Kramer, Herbert B. Lammers, Gilbert McBeth, John McKenna, Joseph Meyer, Joseph Meyers, John C. Molloy, J. Harry Moore, John A. Murray, Theodore J. Rolfe, Robert Ruthman, David Ryan, Albert Schmitz and Jerome Stirkorh.

Prize Winners

For leading their classes in scholarship, the following received gold medals: Gilbert McBeth, Fourth A, William Robinson, Fourth B, Frank Arlinghaus, Third A, Herbert Barnhorn, Third B, Theodore Goshen, Third C, Charles Glueckin, Second A, Francis Stenz, Second B, Paul Ratterman, Second C, Richard Kennedy, Second D, Othmar Juergens, First A, Austin Welch, First B, Edward McGrath, First C, George Holbrook, First D, Raymond Daley, First E, Edwin Nicolini, First F.

The winners of the elocution contest, held May 13, were awarded their medals, Fourth Year, John Murray, Third Year, James Glenn, Second Year, Raymond Grote, First Year, A. Weber.

On the following evening, another lively affair took place at the Club House, the graduates' banquet. In addition to the graduates, there were present Rev. Fathers Kister, Boylan and Donnelly and Messrs. Leibold, Thos. Geoghagan and Hauser, S. J.

CRUSADERS

Rally to Dayton for Third General Convention

"From present indications, about 500 delegates and guests from outside points will be present at the General Convention of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade at the University of Dayton, August 18-21. Over 400 Dayton Crusaders will also attend, swelling the attendance to imposing proportions."

"The Convention will be divided into two departments, legislative and mission review. Meetings of legislation occur mornings of convention days, and will be devoted to consideration of the Crusade's program of action for the coming year. These are principally business meetings."

"Mission review meetings will be held afternoons and evenings and will consist of stereopticon lectures covering the more important mission fields. The purpose of these meetings is to give delegates first hand information concerning missions, and to provide diversion after the work of legislative meetings."

"The University Orchestra will furnish music at dinner each day, and together with the Dayton Choral Art Society will give entertainment daily during intermissions between mission review meetings."

News Readers Invited

This is the message prepared specially for the Xaverian News by Rev. Frank A. Thill, Secretary-Treasurer of the Crusade. All readers of the News who are interested in mission work and would like to become acquainted with the aims and spirit of the Students' Crusade, are cordially invited to attend the convention as visitors. Arrangements can be made by communicating with Father Thill at 129 East Ninth Street, Cincinnati. The expense will be very small, the convention will be very enjoyable, and all will be welcomed heartily.

The list of speakers and lecturers is most impressive, including, as it does, men known far and wide as leaders in missionary activities. The many diversions on the program will give variety, and will sustain the interest of all.

St. Xavier, like other Jesuit Colleges, will be well represented by delegates from its matts. Moreover, immediately after the address of welcome by Very Reverend Joseph Tetlow, president of the University of Dayton, Edward A. Precking, St. Xavier, '21, will speak on "Our Convention."

Xaverians are to go on the special Crusade train leaving the B. & O. station Thursday afternoon, August 18.

CHAMPION DEFEATED BY CO-ED

The "champion" bowler of the college isn't holding his head quite so high since it was made known that he was defeated by a co-ed Freshman Accounting in a recent bowling match. The argument of the co-eds is something like this: "If one of our number can defeat the 'champion,' the others must be some bowlers."

"IN 1970"

By Leo ("Doc") Spaeth

(Dedicated cordially to our class of '21)

Yes, over the hills in the panhandle,
My buddies—my classmates—are there,
The tall and the short and the fat ones,
They're gray to the roots of their hair.

I take them a basket of dough-nuts
And news of St. Xavier received,
For there, in its galleries of learning,
This gang was painstakingly reared.

We speak of success and of failure,
We ponder, reflect, and then stop
To think that the "dumb-bells" we Laughed at

Are guys that are now at the top!

The best in his class tells this story:
"I'm sorry I studied too deep,
Forgetting to choose a vocation—
The thought of it all makes me weep."

"I owe my decline, boys, to cheating,"
Some gadamer will sobbingly say,
"It's shameful, the way I copied
And skived to procure my B. A."

Then, tuckling with relish the dough-nuts,
And swishing with gusto the flies,
Some songster starts singing our class song.

Which makes the things swim 'fore the eyes,
Then crying and howling and weeping,
With unctious and various noise,
We think of the days spent at college:
"O, then was the happy days, boys!"

And then when the twilight is falling,
Again o'er the green hills I roam;
The place where I stay's in the d's-
tance,

A site called the Old Soldiers' Home.

U. C. GRADUATES

Of '21 Include Five Xaverians

According to the University of Cincinnati's annual, five St. Xavier men received degrees at U. C. last month. From the College of Chemical Engineering were graduates Eugene J. Feighery and Francis R. Gellenbeck; from the Law College, Earl F. Westorf; from the Medical John J. Maloney and Alphonse R. Vanderbake, who was one of the most prominent members of his class.

U. C. is to be congratulated on its magnificent annual, "The Cincinnati," the editors of which are to be congratulated equally for having produced an annual that does credit to the "greatest of American municipal universities."

The formation of a Seward Boosters' Club in St. Xavier is being considered by students from "The Gem of the Highlands."

PICTORIAL

Wins General Commendation

Approval of both Students and Faculty greeted the Pictorial Issue of the News, the most ambitious literary effort made in St. Xavier for many years. While there were a number of constructive criticisms, the general verdict was very favorable.

The following remarks by well known Xaverians are of interest:

Father Helmer: "Fine! Very much pleased."

Richard Finn, President St. X Co-operators: "Under the circumstances, it could not have been improved upon."

C. Balzer, President Bookkeeping Class: "Splendid! Looks mighty good."

Ann Mentink: "I thought it was very good and well arranged. It looks like the beginning for an annual next year."

Leo E. Spaeth: "It represents the best effort that St. Xavier has placed between two covers and labeled as her own publication. Such a thing denotes progress and is a certain indication of an annual for next year."

Catherine Carter: "A good start on the road to an annual."

Charles Boyle: "It had but one defect. My face could not be found in it."

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY

Headed by Former St. X. Rector

Rev. Michael M. O'Connor, S. J., formerly rector of St. Xavier College, has been named acting president of St. Louis University during the illness of Rev. William Robinson.

The selection of Father O'Connor is extremely gratifying to his numerous friends in Cincinnati, as well as to all who have the pleasure of knowing or of having known him.

He visited Cincinnati with the Very Reverend Everard Bookers, S. J., four months ago, and was greeted very cordially in his old college.

SUMMER DOINGS

Work and Play of Faculty and Students

Father Rector paid a short visit to St. Louis.

Father Kister, Dean of the Arts College, was recently in St. Louis. He has returned to direct the Summer School.

Father Spalding conducted a retreat for working girls in St. Louis, and one for the alumnae of a convent at St. Charles, Missouri.

Father Beloe has returned after attending conventions in Chicago and Milwaukee.

Father Flynn is expected back very shortly after conducting a retreat at New Lexington, Ohio. This is his second retreat of the summer, the other having been in Chicago.

E. M. Monflier, Dean of the Law School, looks for still hotter weather. He is soon to take a trip to the cooler climate of Canada.

George Ridinger is out in the country with two other young bachelors enjoying "the coolest of cool breezes." They close their pleasant days with nights "made musical or hideous," as he writes, "by one so-called warbling plus the tones of a baritone horn and a sax."

Dick Finn admits that all his accounting experience and studying have failed to account for these hot days. He finds it very comfortable sleeping at night in the Ohio with his head propped on a rock.

Oscar Gives Advice

Oscar Roth (everybody knows him) reports that sleeping in a bathtub of ice water is the ideal means of securing comfort these torrid nights.

Catherine Carter, the Handworking Co-operator spent a "lovely" vacation at Terrace Park on the Little Miami. During her stay, more fish were caught by the natives than during the five previous summers. Miss Carter used her vocal gifts in such a way as to charm the fish as she walked the bank so they hopped out of the water into the baskets.

"Modest Nappy," the star athlete, is hitting about town, but insists that he is doing "nothing at all."

The high school is developing an extraordinary equestrian. At least, Louis Thorburn has been reported seen several times disporting himself on horseback.

Ann Mentink, the popular C. & S. Co-op, made a retreat at the Sacred Heart Convent, Chilton. Ann intends to spend her vacation on the St. Lawrence equipped with a Comptometer, Burroughs and Dalton to make sure that the Thousand Islands are all there.

Lou ("Doc") Smith is enjoying himself at camp, as much, at any rate, as it is possible to enjoy one's self when vividly sunburned. In the fall he will begin work as director of musical comedies and vaudeville.

George Muggini, Arts, '21, is spending his spare time polishing up that Philosophy Medal he received at Commencement.

SPAFO'S LAST REMARKS

THE time has come to dissipate the mystery. SPAFO—at last it is revealed—is the mouthpiece of the Studiosorum Primi Anni Fidis Ordo, by the initial letters of which words the name is formed. As all members of this Loyal Order of Freshman Boosters are now passing beyond the first-year stage, the name must be dropped.

The original purpose of SPAFO's sayings was to advertise properly the doings of the class of '24. This class, the first to begin college in the new buildings, intends to "set the pace" for succeeding classes. As all acquainted with the events of the year know, the first year's record has been a brilliant one in all respects.

We are particularly proud that the eleven members of SPAFO contributed their share of the success, and we expect the class to win equal glory next year.

Florence Albers, C. & S., '21, reports a new method of catching fish in the Big Miami. She stands on the bank and throws tobacco into the river for the fish, while Mabel Madden sits in a skiff about five hundred feet down the river and stabs the poor fish when it comes up to expectorate.

Ralph H. Kramer, the most aesthetic member of the Arts College, has found time to indulge in some "back to Nature" stuff in spite of his nights at the Public Library.

Evelyn O'Neill, the Co-op's treasurer, spent several delightful weeks in Chicago. Some rumor insists that Evelyn wanted an opportunity to wear her self-designed bathing suit.

Clerking seems to be a favorite occupation of the High School boys. Ray Grote is with a druggist, Joseph Higgins with a gent's furnisher, Edwin Dittman presides over a grocery, Elmer Rohrer is in a department store, while Paul Sanker shows excellent judgment by spending his afternoons in an ice cream parlor.

Catherine Pelman, the charming C. & S. Co-op, surprised the News reporter with the thoughtful remark that "It is too warm to be comfortable." However, the heat does not prevent her from enjoying life. She looks well and can be seen envying quite frequently with a certain classmate.

Larry Collins, High School, '23, at a joint meeting of the Norwood Boy Scouts, proved himself the champion of his city in sending semaphore signals.

Tom Lindsay, the modest C. & S. Bolshevik, declines to give an account of his summer doings. He appears to be running the Tri-State Butler Company.

Johnny Mussio, Arts, '24, according to the latest reports, is camping on the Miami.

"Admiral" Shimmus, Ad-Sales President, says these hot days keep him busy "mopping up." It's a poor season for pianos because the heat dries out the beautiful tone.

SAFE AND SANE

Flag Raising at Arts College July 3

Under the auspices of the Isaac Jogues Assembly of Cincinnati and the Bishop Flager Assembly of Kentucky, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, an interesting pre-Fourth celebration was held in Avondale, Sunday afternoon, July 3.

The stars and stripes were formally presented to the college and raised on the lofty new flagpole erected at Dunn Avenue and Victory Lane (formerly Bloody Run Boulevard). Addresses were made by Rev. James McCabe, president of St. Xavier, Rev. John F. Hickey and Anthony B. Dunlap, Faithful Navigator of the Jogues Assembly.

Music was furnished by the St. Joseph's Orphan Asylum Band.

The flagpole is the gift of Mr. Sweeney, father of Paul J. Sweeney, St. Xavier, '12, now at Florissant in the Jesuit novitiate.

Leo J. Grote, of the Arts College, is developing into quite a salesman of shoelaces, collar buttons, suspenders, etc., as a result of his experience in a gent's furnishings shop. He is to be a delegate of the Henry P. Millet Unit to the Crusaders' Convention at Dayton, next month.

Frank Vehr, president of the Junior Accounting Class, has taken the Honorary Special to Fairyland. Good-bye, those dear old bachelor days. No more pennyante parties without dear wife's consent!

Alfred H. Brendel, Freshman Accounting Professor, is spending several weeks "fishing" in Michigan. As usual, he is out after big game, and expects to catch some rhinoceros, seals and walrus. He'll tell all about it next September, and meanwhile, wishes to be remembered to all.

Steiny's Busy

George Steinkamp, the Arts' Wireless Wiz, has been working on a lot of mysterious contrivances in the physics lab.

George A. Saffin, champion debater of the Arts, admits that even he is suffering from the torridity. It is reported that bets are being laid and odds offered that Saffin will lose considerable weight before the hot spell is over.

Al Boex, the C. & S.'s "Comedian Superb," is bothered but little by the heat, having been born and raised with a crop of red hair. He avers, however, that Prohibition will prove very destructive.

Jerome Corbett, Arts, '23, is enjoying the summer at the Post Office.

John Thornburn, Arts, '24, finds an occasional dip in a swimming pool very refreshing these days.

The Arts students are looking forward to some tall talks next September from the fellows who went to the wilds of five states to sell maps.

Two Xaverians were among the delegates of the Cincinnati Junior Chamber of Commerce at the recent Dallas, Texas, Convention. They were Joseph Vesper and Robert Nieman.

CO-OPERATORS'

Tenth Annual Banquet a Gala Affair

The passing of another milestone in the School of Commerce and Sociology was appropriately celebrated by the Tenth Annual Banquet at the Hotel Gibson on the evening of May 11. This annual dinner, first held a few years ago, has grown rapidly into the fixed tradition of the school and is an event eagerly anticipated from year to year by students, graduates and faculty alike.

In keeping with the prevailing celebrations, the banquet of 1921 seemed to surpass all others in the spirit of good cheer and good fellowship. Past attendance records went glimmering, for when grace was said, approximately three hundred guests were at tables.

The ball room of the Gibson was tastefully decorated in the college colors, and from behind the palms came alluring strains of the hotel orchestra. Patriotic atmosphere was obtained when the lamps were darkened and the curtains of the stage pulled back, revealing the stars and stripes flying in the spotlight while the guests sang the national anthem.

Speakers

The president of the Co-operators, Richard J. Finn, who presided as Toastmaster, was one of the outstanding figures of the evening.

The speakers were Father Gressle, chief of the Bureau of Catholic Charities of Cincinnati, Ren Mulford, Jr., Edward Moultrie, dean of the Law School, Alfred Brendel, professor of Accounting, Miss Florence C. Albers, president of the class of '21, Father Reher, regent of the School of Commerce and Sociology, and Bryant Venable, the speaker of the evening, who urged his audience to appreciate the invaluable asset of youth with its accompanying characteristic of "imagination, the power that drives business forward and accomplishes great things."

An interesting event was the presentation of an unusually handsome traveling bag to Father Reher by Miss Albers on behalf of her class.

This afforded the opportunity for the entire audience to rise and accord an ovation to the chief executive of the School, who modestly expressed his appreciation and spoke on "Co-operation."

The rendition of some prime old selections on the violin by Roberto Giovanni Visconti, and the staging of some "stunt" songs by Curtis Williams, the Community Song Leader, gave diversity to the program.

LAW STUDENTS

Banquet at the Gibson June 6

The Law School turned out "en masse" at the jovial banquet at Hotel Gibson, Monday, June 6. The affair was well handled and altogether a brilliant success.

John Doyle presided as Toastmaster. After-dinner speeches were given by Father Spalding, Regent of the Law School, Mr. Moultrie, Dean of the Law School, Elmer Conway, Secretary, Messrs. Horne, Reeves, Dunlap and others.

The Law School has been in existence only two years, but from present indications will be a prominent department of the Greater St. Xavier of the future.

And so the Tenth Annual Banquet became history. Perfect in every detail, thoroughly enjoyable from the gastronomic as well as the oratorical standpoint, it will stand out as "an event in the remembrance of every guest present, and will be a standard for the future."

The hard-working committee that engineered this remarkably successful banquet consisted of J. W. Twomey, Chairman, Aloysius Boex, Albert Ballzer, Catherine Carter, Ann Canroy, Robert Feist, Francis Labrecht, Ann B. Mentink, Evelyn O'Neill, Catherine Pelman, George Schultze and Orlando Simmes.

MULFORDISTS' FINALE

"Goodbyes" of the Ad-Sales Class

Although the last chapter in the history of the activities of the class in Advertising and Salesmanship has been written the friendships formed during the months of cheerful association will not end. Some one has well said that friendships are the most valuable assets of life. This is the declaration which strikes a responsive chord in the heart of Ben Mulford, Jr., who never tires of voicing his appreciation of the boys and girls of his "family" as he calls them or "The Mulfordists," as they styled themselves.

The class maintained the white heat of interest to the end and the May gatherings were surcharged with as much "pop" as the inaugural meetings of the autumn. On the last of the April nights Mr. Bryant Venable, Secretary of The Whitaker Paper Company, and assistant to the President of that great organization came for his annual class visit. He filled a well filled class room, and looked into eyes that were eager for worthwhile pick-ups along the road of practical experience. It was an ovation rather than an ordinary welcome that he received from the Ad-Sales folk and a host of visitors who gladly accepted the opportunity to share the unusual treat with the class.

Mr. Venable's mind is a rich mine of helpfulness and the nuggets of suggestion that he delivered P. O. R., to his eager auditors were worth a premium higher than American Exchange from a foreign viewpoint at the present moment. Mr. Venable surprised Mr. Mulford with a word picture of a happening way back in the days when his St.

MULFORDISMS

Ben Mulford's Three Latest Aphorisms

It won't help any fellow's batting average to keep driving out fouls, and the youngster who packs his brain with chaff instead of brain food isn't going to win any medals in the Business League.

Imagination is a fine guide to the land where good dreams come true, but if you allow imagination to poison you, you'll wind up on the bogs of failure. Nothing is more destructive of good work or happiness than theanker of unjustified suspicion.

Life is a field in which we sow all kinds of seeds, and the harvest depends upon the sort of seed we plant.

Xavier class was his fledgling charge. It was the story of a prophecy that has been fulfilled in the successive achievement of the class.

Ben B. George

"Problems in Selling" was the subject of the talk which Ben B. George of The Proctor & Gamble Company gave at the May get-away. He defined Advertising as a Public School and Salesmanship as individual lessons. A good salesman must be one point talk and nine points judgment. The faithful salesman must be a dispenser of good will and cheerfulness. Successful salesmen guard their hours and minutes as carefully as a banker does his money. These two addresses ranked with the best of the thirty weeks.

"Friday the thirteenth" was devoted to exams and a visit from Charles Edwin Hopkins, whose collection of specimens of ancient Japanese wood engraving is one of the most valuable in the land. Mr. Hopkins is a St. Xavier alumnus and was President of the Ad-Sales Class of '18-'19. His night was a veritable treat.

An Revolt

Although the class goodbyes were spoken on the night after the splendid banquet there was a fine turnout and each member was given the "fourth degree" in the Order of Self-Confidence. Personal tributes were paid and acknowledged, and the instructor, Mr. Mulford, presented autographed souvenirs of the night—one of his epigrams that he offered as a typographical memento of the closing session.

The thought expressed was:

"Troubles that we picture as lying just ahead are often Imagination's Flag Stations that simply slow us up. Keep on going under a full head of courage. Sunshine is always behind the darkest clouds."

Thus ended another college year and after a few weeks another class will start along the way, privileged to feel the pulse of Experience and to grasp the hand of Success.

WHING WHANG

Fine Evening's Entertainment

Two hours of splendid 'vandeille greeted those who witnessed the Athletic Council's presentation of Whing-Whang at the Emery, May 27. The list of acts previously announced received considerable modification before the final performance. Ten acts were listed on the program, one of which did not appear.

An overture by Smittle's Orchestra opened the show. Billed as the Omigoshologist, "Doc" Speth presented a number of humorous impersonations, that of the Italian tenor, Caruso, being particularly well received.

The mystery was put into Whing-Whang by Andrew Bording, in a miniature Thurston act. His clever line of patter added much to the effect of his illusions. "For Goodness Sake" was the offering of Leo Grote and Alva Griesinger. It was a lively troup and girl skit with brisk dialogue and fine costuming, and was put across in snappy style.

Miss Eva Downall of the Schuster-Martin School gave a vivid and humorous monologue portrayal of the joys of dithering. Miss Ruth Morris of the College of Music, rendered several violin solos in a most pleasing manner. The singing of Miss Helene Kessing, popular soprano, won prolonged applause. She was accompanied by the College Trio, consisting of Eugene Eckerle, Eugene Perazzo and Murray Paddock.

A colorful touch was added the evening's entertainment by the Xavier Trospians under the direction of Miss Florence Moran. This group of clever and pretty young entertainers in a wide repertoire of songs and dances delighted the audience immensely. Kern Aylward and Billy White offered a number of late song hits in professional style.

The final act of Whing-Whang was "Way Down Yest," slated as a Fleischman production. This very clever and original pantomime was a burlesque on the conventional melodrama of a few decades ago. It was written and directed by Leo Speth, who also played the heroine, the lovely Chlorine. The Rightful Dad was portrayed by George B. Maggini, Jr., the Villain by M. Scott Kearns, and the Hero by Gene Eckerle.

The executive staff for Whing-Whang consisted of Leo B. Speth, M. Scott Kearns, John H. Rolles, George B. Maggini, Jr., The College Club and J. Howard Georlin.

The conferring of the degree of Doctor of Philosophy by John Hopkins University on Rev. Alphonse Schwiballa, S. J., is reported by the Catholic Telegraph.

Earlier Schwiballa formerly taught at St. Xavier College. During the last two years he made zoological researches at John Hopkins, Baltimore, under direction of Prof. R. P. Cowles. It is in reward for this work that he received the distinction.

XAVIER'S LOSS

Reassuring as it is to know that the rich resources of talent and learning in the Society of Jesus will provide able successors to the members of the Faculty whose transfers have just been announced, the change will be felt nevertheless in the hearts of many in Cincinnati.

This is particularly the case on account of the wide acquaintance of some of these men because of the positions they occupied. Prefect of the High School, Regent of the School of Law, Regent of the School of Commerce and Sociology.

It is certain that all leaving us will be accompanied by the students' heartiest wishes for their continued success in their new undertakings.

AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Keeping abreast with the great forward strides made by St. Xavier during the past year, the Xaverian News has taken on a new appearance, a higher tone, and a superior quality.

Certainly, all expected an improvement, for every year ought to bring some betterment, but reasonable expectations have been surpassed. Moreover, the paper is now run strictly by the students themselves while the Faculty Adviser, by kindly helpful advice, simply makes them feel their own responsibilities.

The success of the News is to be attributed very largely to the wholehearted interest and unselfish labor of the editor, George V. Bidingger, Arts, '22. As he is now away for the summer, we have a fitting opportunity to express the sincere appreciation of the entire institution for his accomplishments.

Careful, accurate, conscientious, George Bidingger ever aims to secure quality, so as to make the News a distinct credit to St. Xavier. With this aim, he freely devotes many hours of thought and work to every edition, and yet finds time to maintain a very creditable record in scholarship as well as a keen interest in all school affairs and in a diversity of outside activities.

Since his high qualifications for the editorship are recognized by the whole college, we sincerely hope that he will accept the editorship again next fall, and guide the News through another year of progress.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Is there a Boy Scout troop in your parish? There ought to be at least one in every parish.

There is no doubt whatsoever that the Boy Scout movement is achieving notable success. It directs the buoyant energy of youth into useful, constructive channels. The active Scout is generally better, morally, mentally and physically than other boys. He will be a better, broader, healthier, and more efficient man than the boy who lacks scout training. Moreover, scouting is one of the greatest existing forces for promoting patriotism. Every scout is a foe to Bolshevism.

Scouting has well been defined as "the process of making real men out of real boys." In this process, real men are needed as leaders. A real man is a live, red-blooded, right-hearted, clear-minded, religious patriot. Are you such a man?

The leaders of scouts derive very ample rewards. By associating with the boys, he retains his own youth and wins the loyal friendship of his scouts. By the outdoor life, he strengthens his health and secures or increases useful knowledge of nature. The Scout Oath and Laws are constant reminders of his own duties. He is made ready to face emergencies. He develops his qualities of leadership.

Leaders Wanted

More leaders are urgently needed. Eight million American boys have not yet had the opportunity to become scouts. In Cincinnati, there are about 2500 scouts while there could be 5000.

Here is a serious proposition for every young man: if you take an active interest in scouts, you will benefit the boys, you will benefit yourself, you will make better citizens for your country, you will make better members for your Church.

Summer, camp time, is a fine time to become acquainted with the scouts. Young men, the scouts want you in some way. If you are over 21, you might become scout master, over 18, assistant scoutmaster, but at any age you can lend them a hand. Think it over.

AS TO HAZING

There is a slight but unfortunately persistent and growing sentiment among Arts students in favor of introducing the practice of hazing into St. Xavier next September. It is claimed Cheer up: The merry pictures of Santa Claus that we see 'round Christmas time are painted in the sweltering summer sun! And after the sunshine comes the storm! Ha, ha! And my back's so sun-burned I can hardly push this pencil!

Here is my imitation of the modern poem, "them" that takes years to fathom:

"Summer"

Leaves of saffron, draped forlorn,
A purple sound, in colors of brick;
Snow on mountains, red as corn;
A blackbird culls, the clocks all tick.

And the second stanza:

Gray lines clash with vivid blues,
The crest of foam becoming serene;
Beer in bottles, gangs of stew;
It all sounds nice, but what's it mean?

* * *

P. S.—And people get paid for stuff like this?

An enthusiast claims that he (or she!) sees a French poodle in the moon now! Schucks, I've known fellows who've seen a whole kounel full of moons!

(CURTAIN)

that Freshmen will thus be cured of conceit and inspired with respect for upper classmen.

These are merely the pretexts, not the reasons for this agitation. A real reason is a desire to do mischief, to have a good time at the expense of the newcomers, and to mimic the colleges where hazing is tolerated.

St. Xavier's Freshmen as a rule require no such treatment to give them the proper spirit. They give the upper classmen respect if the latter show themselves worthy of it. Hazing wins only the appearance of respect out of fear of violence and indignities.

As a matter of fact, the hazers, by their very acts, merit only hearty contempt. Since they consider themselves superior to the Freshmen, and yet act like baby Bolsheviks, it is they who are suffering from conceit. Hence it is the would-be hazers themselves who deserve the hazing.

As is well known, the idea is prevalent that "the only reason fellows go to college is to have a good time." This leads less educated people to despise the college man. What can do more to confirm this impression than the outrageous of Freshmen?

The knowledge that hazing is flatly forbidden by the college authorities is enough to keep loyal Xaverians from joining the agitation. Let these give no encouragement to that element that cares nothing for law. Let us impress upon those Bolshevik individuals that, in deliberately violating the school laws, they will run the risk of incurring the most severe punishment.
